The author gave the key to his botnet to a friend for a trial run. And now, the whole system is encrypted and the author can't access it. Security-conscious users will no doubt cringe at the idea of giving control over their own personal data to a stranger. Using the friend's key, the author could have created a custom solution for the purpose of running the botnet, and he could have planned to remove it once the trial period was over. The author isn't exactly ignorant, and he knew exactly what he was doing, but he also did not expect to be attacked by an enthusiastic friend. The author's friend copied the whole key and he can't access the botnet, so he can't control it. This is a true story, and the author had not written this post to hurt anybody. Though it could be argued that this post is a form of braggadocio, that the author should have known better. The author is not working with any other software that would recognize the botnet's computers as the author's. The botnet itself is also not the author's. The author's friend didn't even know that the author's botnet was there.

Conclusion While some people like to keep their doings to themselves, the author is very upfront about his online activities. There are so many website that has a huge database of business customers and which can give a custom report to get client list according to your location and many other factors. These are

Free Excel Password Recovery is a trusted and popular tool for recovering the lost or forgotten passwords to various file formats including Excel, Word, PowerPoint and more. It is also very easy to use. Most of the time, a lost or forgotten password will not let you open the file you want, right? Free Excel Password Recovery will easily help you get back to the file and open it again. If the file is still password protected, the software will try to crack the password. It does this by attempting to brute-force the password. A brute-force password attack uses every possible combination of characters that the program can think of. It will start with the simplest password like 1234567, and will proceed to more complex and longer passwords like abc123456. Password recovery takes place in three steps: 1. Select the file to decrypt 2. Select the decryption method 3. Press Start In order to test the decryption process, use the check function. A report will be generated that will list all the keys that were tried to open the file. The file will be opened, and if the password was correct, you will be returned to the program. Otherwise, it will return a message that the file is locked. To recover your lost password, you must know the following. File format: Excel (2002+), Access, Word and PowerPoint (.xls,.ppt,.doc) File extension: *.xls, *.ppt, *.doc Decryption method: Brute force, Mask, and Dictionary Password length: Short (6 characters max), Medium (10 characters max) and Long (14 characters

max) To see the program's other features, simply read the Help file.
